

Voluntary Blood Donation 2025

As part of Fourlis group ongoing commitment to social contribution and solidarity, the annual Voluntary Blood Donation initiative was once again organized across the group's company facilities in Greece and Cyprus.

Employees responded with great enthusiasm, actively participating in an initiative of vital importance for supporting blood supply and helping people in need.

Thanks to their strong participation, 396 units of blood were collected, reflecting the strong spirit of solidarity and contribution that characterizes the group's culture.

Fourlis group would like to sincerely thank all employees who participated and supported this important initiative, continuing to foster a culture of responsibility, volunteering, and meaningful social contribution.
